Technical Specifications of "INTELLIGENT GAS SENSING PLATFORM FOR CHEMI-RESISTIVE TYPE GAS SENSORS"

We are developing nano-technology based compact, low cost air quality monitoring system with wire-less connectivity. For this purpose we want to procure an intelligent gas sensing platform to measure the sensing characteristics of several nano-structured sensing materials (mostly chemi-resistive type) developed in our laboratories. The desired specification of the required sensing system is as follows:

Test chamber

- Preferably, chamber should be stainless steel made and equipped with heating stage.
- It should be fitted with two suitable connectors for gas in and out. Provision should be there for one more connector to connect a suitable vacuum pump for chamber evacuation. All these standard connectors should be heat resistant.
- The test chamber should preferably be equipped with suitable heating stage. Temperature range for the heating stage should at least be RT-500°C with a precision of  $\pm 1^\circ\text{C}$  (maximum), stability  $\pm 1^\circ\text{C}$  (maximum) controlled by a programmable temperature controller.
- The chamber should be fitted with an upper quartz window (preferably 3 cm diameter) for optical/UV illumination or other characterization purpose.

Electrical system

- Ideally, we will use nano-structured sensing materials deposited on substrate coated with electrode on one side and usually blank (or some cases with thin film heater) on the other side. It is desirable that the test chamber should be equipped with suitable connectors for electrical connections. The chamber should be equipped with at least two tungsten made micro-probes for the measurement of test signals. It is desirable to have the provision of two more micro-probes. The volume of the sensor chamber should be adequate to accommodate these micro-probes, however, provision must be there to flow gases close to the test samples. A clear sketch of signal and heater connections for the sensing elements must be supplied with the quote with appropriate illustration.
  - The sensor measurement unit must use an electrometer for test signal measurement. It is desirable that electrometer typically Keithley 6514 or a reliable equivalent unit of other reputed brand is used. The desirable current range of such unit is 100 pA to 200 mA and the voltage range is  $\pm 200$  mV to  $\pm 2$ V. The electrometer must be computer controlled (equipped with suitable software for necessary programming, instrument control, data acquisition, real time plotting, data storing (in ASCII or other windows compatible formats) and printing) and capable to measure I-t, R-t, I-V characteristics etc. Preferably BNC connectors should be supplied to connect the source-measure unit with the test chamber. It is desirable that the software should also control the temperature of the heater equipped with the test chamber and gas flow as detailed below).

Providing humid ambient and gas/volatile liquid (VOC) distribution system in the test chamber

- Provision for humid ambient (with digital reading) and gas/liquid distribution system must be quoted for dynamic flow gas sensing measurement.
  - Such unit must be equipped with required number mass flow controllers for background gas, and test gases such as NH<sub>3</sub>, SO<sub>2</sub>, CO, NO<sub>2</sub>, O<sub>3</sub>, liquid VOC (viz. benzene, ethanol) etc. Rugged MFCs made by reputed companies like Alicat, MKS etc must be used.
  - The quote should have complete technical specification of the used MFCs. Usually we will use premix gas cylinders (typically 10,000 ppm) for gas sensing measurements. Sometime we will also mix two (or more) gases to measure the sensing characteristics of the developed sensors. The measurement unit must have suitable arrangement for gas mixing and precise concentration control in the test chamber. The principle of used gas mixing protocol for maintaining the gas concentration inside the test chamber must be illustrated in the quote citing suitable examples.
  - All valves/connectors should be standard and widely available type else the vendor must be ready to supply required adaptor etc for connecting the pre-mixed gas bottles. For liquid delivery gas bubbler or any other standard system may be used.
  - Please note that the lower and higher detection limit for all the test gases mentioned above is typically 100 ppb to 500 ppm. For liquid source, the minimum limit desirable is 100 ppm.
  - The material for gas delivery system must be anti-corrosive for all the test gases mentioned above.
  - The humidity range should typically be 2%-90%.
  - A software must be supplied for precise gas and liquid dilution in the ranges mentioned above. Any future upgradation of the software should be free of cost.
  - Specification of a PC must be specified to run all the required software. The vendor should supply a suitable PC loaded with require software.
  - If any additional equipment/accessories are required for operating the gas sensing system, vendor must specify their specifications in the quote.
  - Thermal stage temperature and gas flow rate must be synchronized with output signal (say measured resistance transients)

Optional items

1. Spare tungsten probe (Qty 6)
  2. Spare BNC and gas connectors (Qty 6 each)
  3. Spare valves (Qty 6)
  4. Ceramic substrate (typically 7mm x 13mm) coated with suitable heater (viz. made of Ag-Pd alloy) on one side and IDE electrode with appropriate base for probe connectivity. Quantity required 500 pcs.

5. Taguchi type sensor package with alumina rod coated with stripe electrode, spiral heater to be fitted inside the alumina rod, and sensor base and cover to hold the sensing elements. Quantity required 500 pcs.
